Development of Coffee Industry.

The coffee picking season is just begining in Hamakua, following the Kona season by four or five months. Each district has its own coffee picking season, so that with the growth of the industry coffee pickers could follow the picking season around and find employment most of the time. It is said that over in Kona the picking season is taken into account by the school authorities in considering the question of vacations. The coffee industry is developing in the islands, and with the arrival of the era of good prices that is sppearing on the horizon, good money is likely to be made that will give a new impetus to the business; in which case the experience derived from the past few years of coffee culture will be valuable,
